GLADE - Literacy Lab	EC2U Virtual Institute for Good Health and Well-being (GLADE) -
Name of the module	SMART AGEING AND HEALTHY LIFE Summer School, first Edition.
Course title (L-lecture / W-workshop)	FIRST AID
Course leader/Lecturer Academic title, first and last name Link to an updated CV (EN)	Lecturer PhD. Raluca Mihaela ONOSE Lecturer PhD. Paul LUCACI Teaching Assistant Alexandru CITEA
Language of instruction	English
Course description Maximum 100-120 words	The "First aid" course will help the social worker gain competences regarding the first aid / self first aid. The participants will learn how to identify the proper technique and how to apply them.
Tackeld concepts 5 to 7 of the topics covered / lecture content	How to manage accidents like: choking, falls, cuts and scrapes, burns and heat- and cold-related illness.
Prerequisites	none
Learning methods / Instruction modes Lecture/workshop/practical application /field activity - interactive approach supported by academic articles, case studies, videos, class debates	Lecture and practical application
Assignments class participation, problem-solving sessions, practical application, case study, group discussions, group assignments/presentations, posters	Class participation, problem solving, sessions with practical applications, case study
Evaluation	The participants will be evaluated at the final Social Impact Conference held at the end of the summer school.
Bibliography/Course material Recommended reading	British Red Cross (2011). First Aid Manual - 9th Edition Revised American College of Emergency Physicians (2002) First Aid Manual Irish Red Cross (2010) First Aid Training Brochure

The above mentioned curricular activity is part of the EC2U - GLADE Virtual Institute - SMART AGEING AND HEALTHY LIFE Summer School, first Edition. In order for the participants to be able to sit the final evaluation test, they need a minimum of 70% presence at the curricular and extracurricular activities. A pass/fail grading system is used in evaluating the participants, the decision on the awarding of the 3 ECTS credits being based on their active participation in classes and on their successfully passing the module final evaluation.